

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A sulky to be drawn by a horse is provided that removes or lessens many problems with conventional sulkies including providing an arrangement to align the wheels to ensure that they are aligned with the direction the horse is pulling the sulky, a wheel assembly with substantially planar wheel covers, an arrangement for allowing the horse and the sulky to track independently of each other, and an arrangement for offsetting the center line of the sulky from the center of the horse.